Aims and Scope

Central Asian Survey is devoted to the study of the history, politics, cultures and economics of the peoples of the Central Asian region, which includes those territories and populations from western China to western Anatolia sharing a common historical, ethnic, cultural, religious and linguistic heritage. Foremost of these is Soviet Central Asia and its related Turko-Muslim territories in the Caucasus and the Middle Volga, but includes as well Eastern Turkestan (Chinese Xinjiang), Afghanistan, Iran and Turkey. The historical importance of these lands with their unique and beautiful cultures and the recent unfolding of significant political, demographic, economic and military events in the region, which have precipitated new strategic linkages and raise the spectre of important local and regional change, make Central Asian studies an area of distinct and separate interest.

Instructions for contributors

Prospective authors should submit copies of papers (preferably in duplicate), typed and double-spaced on quarto or A4 paper. They should retain a copy for the purpose of checking proofs.

Contributions should be sent to The Editor, Central Asian Survey, Unit 8, 92 Lots Road, London, SW10 4BQ, U.K. Manuscripts will not be formally acknowledged, unless asked for, but every attempt will be made to communicate with contributors at the earliest possible time.

Any diagrams necessary should be carefully drawn and fully labelled in black ink; captions should appear on a separate sheet.

The Editor may alter manuscripts wherever necessary to make them conform to the stylistic and bibliographic conventions of the journal. Authors will receive proofs which should be checked carefully and returned as soon as possible.

Specialized symbols and abbreviations should be defined at their first appearance. Notes and references should be typed, double-spaced, on a separate sheet, numbered consecutively. They should be referred to in the text by superscripts. Citations should be as follows:
